✳ Answer

I apologize, but I don't have accurate fire incident data for the last five years specifically for Covington, VA. The search results don't provide recent comprehensive data for this particular city.

The most recent information available for Covington is from 2019, which is now outdated. In the last half of 2019, the Covington Fire Department made 6,024 runs, with 78.25% being EMS-related, 8.28% false alarms, and only 0.73% structure fires ¹.

For more recent and comprehensive fire incident data, we would need to consult updated local reports from the Covington Fire Department or the Virginia Department of Fire Programs. If you have more information, I recommend contacting these agencies for the most up-to-date statistics.

Answer

I apologize, but I cannot provide an analysis of recent fire incident data for Covington, VA from the last five years based on the given search results. The data provided does not contain any specific information about fire incidents in Covington, Virginia. The search results primarily consist of wildland fire incident locations across various states, but do not include any data points for Covington, VA.

To obtain accurate and recent fire incident data for Covington, VA, you would need to consult local fire department records, state fire marshal reports, or other official sources specific to that city. Without access to such localized data, it's not possible to provide an analysis of fire incidents in Covington over the past five years.

If you require this information, I recommend contacting the Covington Fire Department or the Virginia Department of Fire Programs directly for the most up-to-date and relevant statistics.
